Bodegas Fabre

Bodegas Fabre

Argentinian soul, French Finesse

Bodegas Fabre is a family-owned winery led by Hervé and Diane Joyaux Fabre. Founded in the early 1990s, when Malbec was still considered mainly a blending grape, Hervé recognised the potential of Argentina's terroir and purchased some of Mendoza's oldest Malbec vineyards. Drawing on his Bordeaux heritage, he became one of the first winemakers in Argentina to craft a single-varietal Malbec, focusing on elegance and refinement.

In Vino Weix Weixelbaum

Hospitality, cheerfulness and down-to-earth passion are the lifeblood of the winery

The Estate has been in the Weixelbaum family for three generations, who have been nurturing this 22 ha property in the Kamptal wine-growing region. Their main focus is on white wine, and the success of their award-winning estate lies in its holistic, ecological approach. Their philosophy is that vineyards require manual labour, cellars demand knowledge, and a large dose of gut feeling. With a great love for detail, they work to reflect the terroir in all its subtleties.

Leonardslee Family Vineyards

*Rooted in history, a vineyard,
a place and a legacy - Leonard'slee*

The Leonard'slee Family Vineyard label encapsulates the extraordinary journey of its owner, Penny Streeter OBE, from humble beginnings to creating a prestigious English sparkling wine. Once living in homeless accommodation, Penny's story is a modern-day Cinderella tale. The label, designed by local Sussex artist Will Parr, depicts a swallow, symbolising Penny's migration between South Africa and England and reflecting her resilience and determination. Four smaller swallows on the label represent Penny's four children, emphasising the family's integral role in this venture.

Leonardslee

📍 ENGLAND - Sussex

In 2016, the Streeter family acquired the historic Leonardslee Lakes & Gardens, undertaking the largest garden renovation seen in Europe over the past 30 years. Their commitment to sustainability and restoration has revitalised the Grade I listed gardens, which are once again open to the public. Drawing on her extensive experience and knowledge from her South African wine estate, Benguela Cove, Penny Streeter decided to plant vineyards at Leonardslee, continuing the estate's 200-year tradition of horticultural excellence.

Leonardslee's Head Winemaker Johann Fourie champions the partnership between nature and craftsmanship in the pursuit of beautiful wines. His expertise played a key role in producing the UK's first Pinotage at Leonardslee, a distinctive component of their Rosé blend.

Schenk Family France

Burgundy, Rhône & Provence

The Schenk Family has a long and distinguished history in France. Beginning with the establishment of its first international subsidiary in Sète in 1915, the family has since expanded its presence across key French wine regions. Today, it is firmly rooted in Burgundy with the magnificent Henri de Villamont estate, and in the southern Rhône Valley with Château d'Aigueville. In recent years, the family has also partnered with carefully selected producers in other regions, including Provence. This has enabled us to broaden our French portfolio and offer an even wider range of wines to our customers.

Château d'Aigueville

📍 FRANCE - Rhône

Aigueville is a single estate set against the magnificent backdrop of Mont Ventoux and the Dentelles de Montmirail in the Southern Rhône. With 100ha of vines, including 37 in the Massif d'Uchaux region, and surrounded by olive trees, lavender fields and oak trees, it is the largest producer within this prestigious appellation. Situated on a plot with a history spanning 2,000 years, it is the custodian of local winemaking heritage and outstanding biodiversity.

Henri de Villamont

📍 FRANCE - Burgundy

Henri de Villamont is a historic Burgundian estate in Savigny-lès-Beaune, with origins dating back to the late 19th century. Completed in 1888, the winery's striking red-brick and grey-stone buildings rise above 2,400 m² of vaulted cellars, an architectural hallmark of the domaine.

The Schenk family acquired the estate in 1964 and has since upheld its legacy, crafting exceptional wines and presenting them in their signature antique-toned bottles. Set within a peaceful 7-hectare park, the property unites its ageing cellars, boutique, manor house, and two cherished monopole vineyards: Savigny-lès-Beaune "Le Village" and the Premier Cru "Clos des Guettes."

Kellerei Auer

📍 Italy - Alto Adige

Alto Adige is a small yet historic wine region, with viticulture dating back to pre-Roman times. Known as “the land of wine,” its unique Alpine climate, tempered by Mediterranean influences, provides ideal conditions for producing distinctive, high-quality white and red wines. Calcareous and clay soils, nourished by winter snows and summer sunlight, impart minerality, structure, and aromatic complexity. The fine, elegant wines of Kellerei Auer reflect the winemakers’ deep passion for their local terroir.

Castello di Querceto

📍 Italy - Tuscany

Castello di Querceto is located near Greve, in the heart of the Chianti Classico region. The 190-hectare estate includes vineyards, olive groves, and oak and chestnut woodlands. Built in Roman times, the castle was acquired by the François family in 1897, following their move from France to Tuscany in the 18th century.

Since 1978, Alessandro François and his family have led the winery. In 2009, the Schenk family became co-owners. The estate is supported by a strong team, including long-time winemaker Giovanni Cappelli and agronomist Giacomo Grassi, who has overseen the expansion of the vineyards.

We are pleased to present the wines of Castello di Querceto, which are consistently among the highest-rated in the region.

Corte del Golfo

📍 Italy - Campania

Campania is a region of remarkable viticultural heritage, renowned for its wealth of indigenous grape varieties. Long overlooked, these native white varieties have been rediscovered in recent years and are now celebrated as some of the most distinctive and exciting in Italy. From this rich tradition, Corte del Golfo has selected two varieties that best represent excellence and authenticity: Falanghina and Greco di Tufo. Meticulously chosen by our winemakers, these grapes produce wines with vibrant fruit aromas, elegant minerality, and a strong sense of place. Corte del Golfo wines are complemented by striking labels and a refined Art Deco-inspired design.

Gergenti

📍 Italy - Sicily

Sicily is a truly unique place, offering a remarkable diversity of terroirs within a relatively small area. Vineyards are scattered across the island, on mountainous slopes, along shorelines, or on the foothills of a volcano. The name Gergenti derives from the old Sicilian name for the town of Agrigento. Produced by our sister company Schenk Family Italia, Gergenti wines are made from some of the finest grapes grown in Sicily.

Vigneti Zanatta

📍 Italy - Sardinia

VIGNETI ZANATTA

SARDEGNA

Vigneti Zanatta is located in the Gallura region of Sardinia, an area known for its granite rocks and extensive vineyards. The story began in 1973, when Bruno Zanatta started his career by developing an in-depth knowledge of the region and the land of Sardinia. Over forty years later, his passion remains unchanged. His son Marco is now the driving force behind the winery, which extends over 100 ha of land. Vermentino di Sardegna DOC and Cannonau di Sardegna DOC are the winery's two specialities. Dedication, experience and professionalism are the key values of the Zanatta family, who are committed to producing fine wines that reflect a true sense of terroir.

Switzerland

For the Schenk Family, viticulture is not just a profession, it is a heritage to pass on, and a commitment to the future

Since 1893, the Schenk family has poured heart and soul into every bottle of wine. Rooted in the charming Swiss town of Rolle, the family's legacy stretches across generations and borders, with vineyards, estates, and cellars in some of the world's most prestigious and diverse wine regions. For the Schenk family, winemaking is not just a craft; it is a calling, a tradition to honour, a responsibility to uphold, and a promise to future generations.

Aigle les Murailles

📍 Switzerland - Chablais

Founded in 1908 and based in Aigle on the eastern side of Lake Geneva, Badoux Vins is a traditional winery with an estate of more than 50 ha. Long regarded as a pioneer in the Pays de Vaud, Badoux is the driving force behind one of Switzerland's most famous wines, Aigle Les Murailles, which has gained international acclaim. "Murailles", meaning "fortified walls", refers to the stone walls that support the very steep vineyards of Chablais. The lizard displayed on the label is a local resident, often seen around the vineyards in summer, basking in the sun by day and sheltering within the stone walls by night. Badoux Vins is part of the Schenk Family.

Château Maison Blanche

📍 Switzerland - Chablais

Château Maison Blanche is one of the most prestigious wine estates in Switzerland, dating back to 1573. Based in the village of Yvorne in the Vaud region, it has been owned by the Schenk family since 1930. Winemaker Thierry Ciampi produces the estate's wines with a deep respect for its terroir and remarkable history. In keeping with a hundred-year-old tradition, all the wines are made in large oak barrels.

Château de Châtagneréaz

📍 Switzerland - La Côte

Châtagneréaz takes its name from the chestnut forests that once covered the La Côte region. Owned by the Schenk family since 1945, the estate encompasses 18 ha of vineyards. The wines are vinified in oak barrels in the château's historic cellar, whose candlelit inscriptions bear witness to centuries of winemaking tradition. Combining this heritage with modern techniques such as temperature-controlled fermentation, Château de Châtagneréaz produces wines of distinctive character, refined elegance, and excellent ageing potential.
